Whisky from Scotland

The huge selection of Speyside malts offer a variety of strengths and can generally be broken down into two categories, the heavy, rich sherry flavoured malts and the more complex light floral flavoured malts.

Speyside malts are essentially sweet whiskies, although some can have a little peaty character with just a slight whiff of smoke.

Balvenie 12 - 19

Macallan 15 - 31

Glenfiddich 15 - 26

Monkey Shoulder - 19

Chivas 21 Royal Salute – 46

The malts from these Highland distilleries are much less peaty than the malts which are found in the Islay region, although you can detect a slight whiff of smokiness. If there was a common character shared by West Highland whiskies it is they tend to have a sweet start and dry-ish finish.

Oban 14 - 21

Ardmore – 20

Malts from Lowland region are light in colour and have quite a dry finish. The dryness comes from the malt itself, not from peat as Lowland malts tend to be produced with unpeated malt. You may also find a certain sweet fruitiness to the flavour. Lowland malts are regarded as an excellent aperitif.

The peat monster – 19

Hedonism – 24

Johnnie Walker Blue Label – 48

Islay whiskies are the strongest flavoured of all Scotch whiskies and tend to be dry and peaty. They are renowned for their strong peaty smokiness which comes from the peat fuel which they use for malting the barley.

Bruichladdich – 19

Caol Ila 12 – 26

Talisker 18 – 34

Lagavulin 16 – 22

Ardbeg Ten – 22

The Campbeltown single malts are very distinctive, tending to be full bodied, renowned for their depth of flavour and also for their slightly salty finish. With peat adding a hint of flavour similar to that found in an Islay malt.

Springbank - 24

Whiskey of the world

The main difference between scotch and whiskey is geographic, but also ingredients and spellings. Scotch is whisky made in Scotland, while bourbon is whiskey made in the U.S.A, generally Kentucky. Scotch is made mostly from malted barley, while bourbon is distilled from corn. If you're in England and ask for a whisky, you'll get Scotch. But in Ireland, you'll get Irish whiskey (yep, they spell it differently for a little colour).
